My observations:

- Be descriptive
 - Be as descriptive as possible so that another person could pick up your journal 100 years from now and be able to picture what you wrote about and learn about it even if it no longer exists.
- Write how you feel
 - Maybe you are overwhelmed by the size of the bridge you photographed, or amazed at the colour of a flower. Write how what you observe makes you feel.
- Who is with you?
 - Write down who is with you and write about something that person said, did or found that fit in with your exploration today.
