

A new world in Conflict

- More and more people moved from Europe to the colonies in New England.
- These people began to colonize the East coast of North America.
- The colonists wanted more land, so they started to move west. Metacom, or King Philip, and the Wampanoags fought against the English. After a deadly battle that lasted for months, the English defeated the Wampanoags, and continued their move west.
- The French settlers in New France had done their best to be friends with the Native Americans nearby. But the Iroquois attacked the settlers in New France. King Louis XIV sent soldiers to protect the settlers.
- The English continued to settle in New England. William Penn came from England to Pennsylvania with a hundred colonists.

Today, a statue of William Penn stands on top of Philadelphia's City Hall. This drawing is based on that statue.

A new world in Conflict

NEW WORDS!

Disintegrate - break into parts or components.

Muskets - A muzzle-loading shoulder gun with a long barrel.

Filles du roi - daughters of the king . women paid to live in French colonies in New France.

Habitants - farmers in New France.

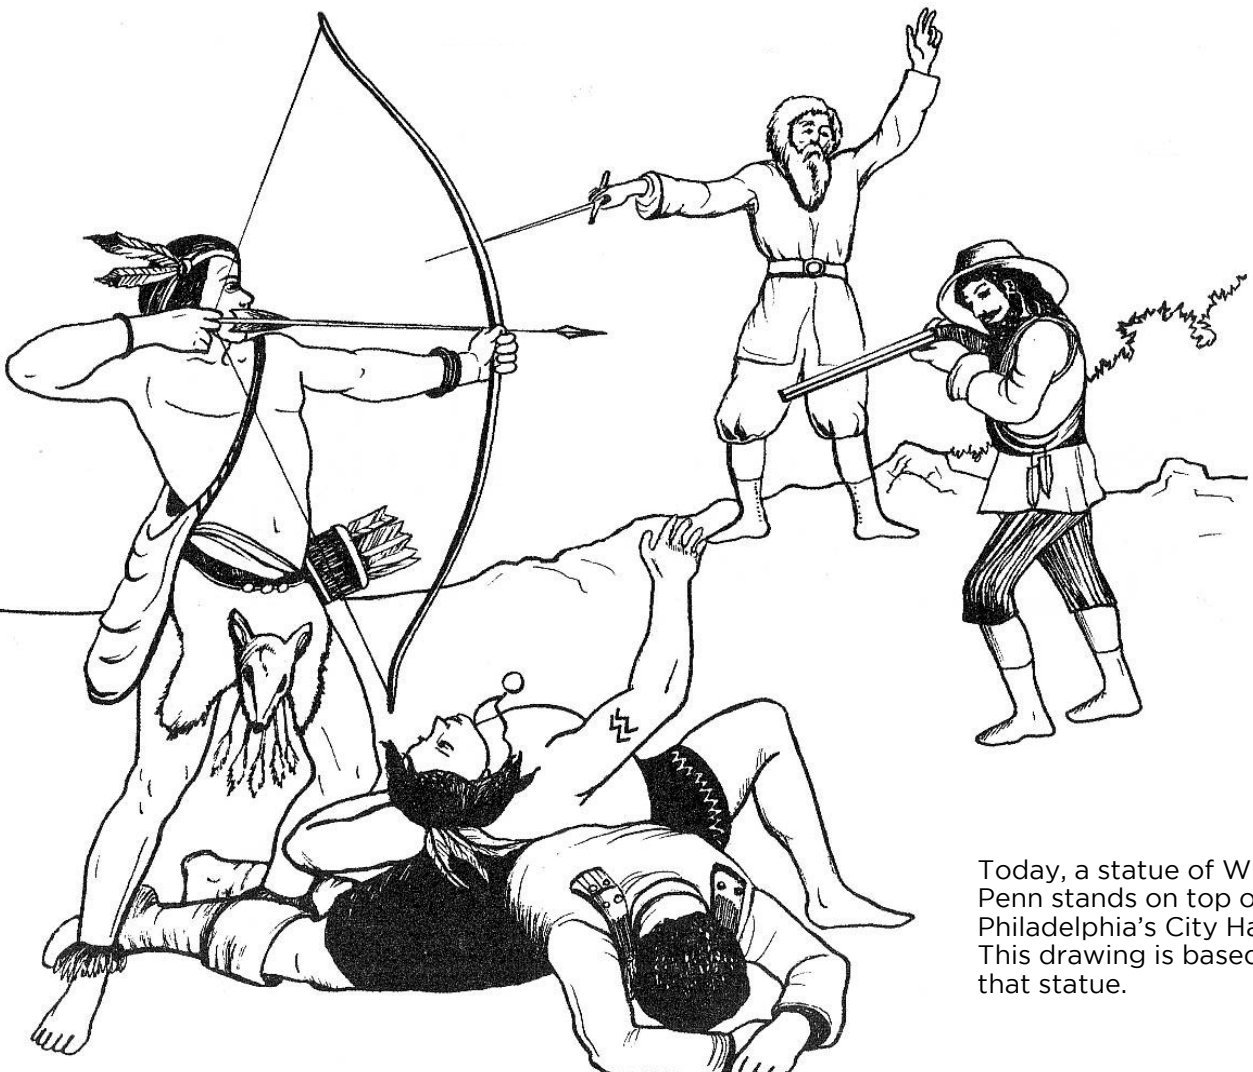

Voyagers - fur traders.

Cobbles - Rectangular paving stone with curved top.

Seigneur - an army officer who had been rewarded with a large farm

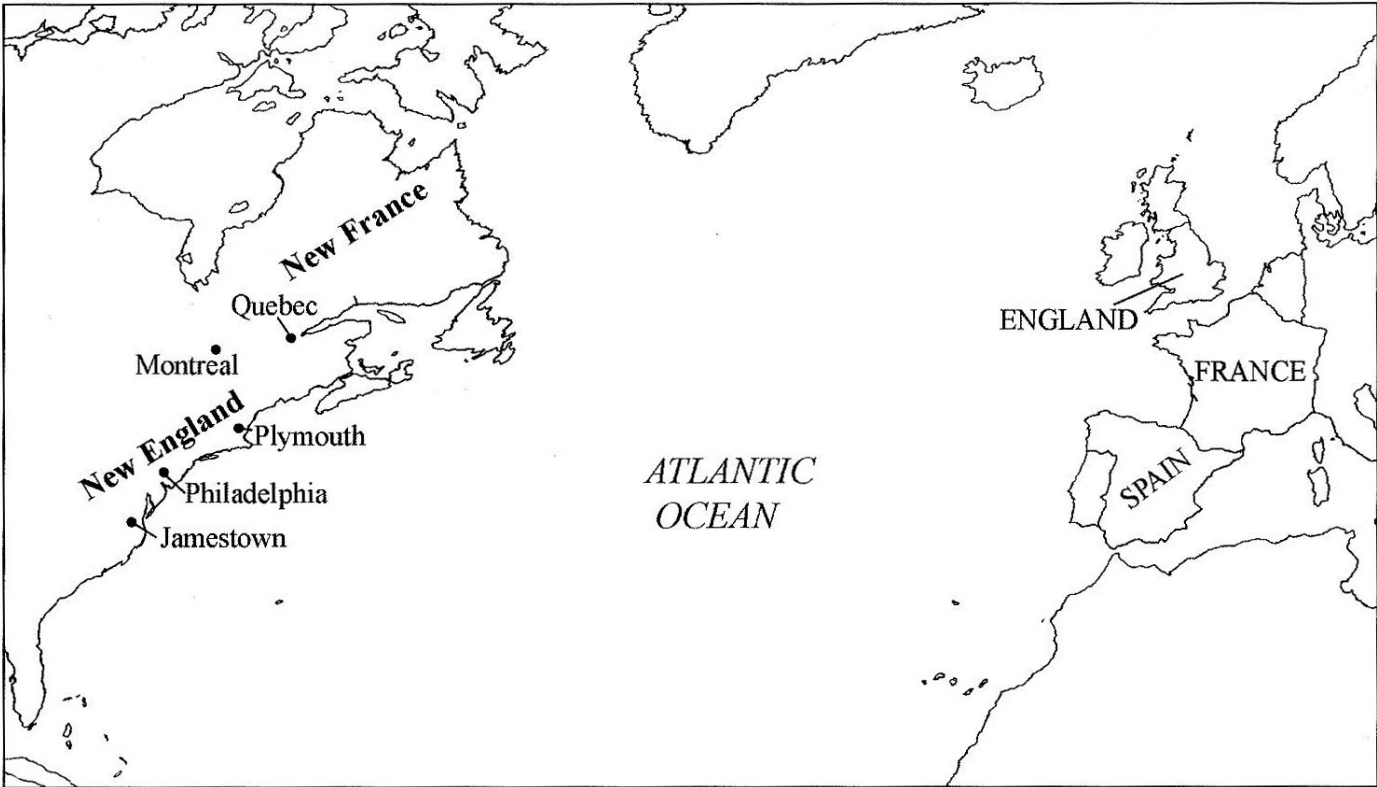

Aristocrat - The most powerful members of a society.

Philadelphia - City of Brotherly love.

Today, a statue of William Penn stands on top of Philadelphia's City Hall. This drawing is based on that statue.

A new world in Conflict

A new world in Conflict

NEW WORDS!

Disintegrate - break into parts or components.

Muskets - A muzzle-loading shoulder gun with a long barrel.

Filles du roi - daughters of the king . women paid to live in French colonies in New France.

Habitants - farmers in New France.

Voyagers - fur traders.

Cobbles - Rectangular paving stone with curved top.

Seigneur - an army officer who had been rewarded with a large farm

Aristocrat - The most powerful members of a society.

Philadelphia - City of Brotherly love.

